WHY EXFOLIATE?

Sometimes, even a sophisticated organ like the skin needs a bit of assistance in performing what should come naturally. Exfoliation—the loosening of dead skin cells from the upper layer of the skin, has risen in prominence, and with good reason. That accumulated debris dulls the complexion, more so as we age and our cell turnover slows down. Regular use of an exfoliant—particularly a microderm treatment helps the skin along. It also allows better penetration of the moisturizer and other treatments that follow it. Just be careful as it's easy to get overzealous about exfoliating. If a granular scrub is your preferred tool (like a microderm treatment), choose one with perfectly spherical particles, such as jojoba beads, that don't scratch the skin.
